THE HOME TEAM VICTORIOUS

Pushed Hard for a Few Innings, It Brilliantly Winson a Decisive Score.

Chicago, Detroit and Boston Among the Defeated-In the Association Cincinnati, Louisville and Cleveland Win-Notes.

The Waterloo of Wednesday at the hands of New York did not seem to discourage the admirers of the National game in this city, and a very fair crowd was out yesterday to see the two tail-end clubs of the league wrestle for supremacy. The contest was quite a brilliant affair for seven innings, although the batting was so light that there was not much excitement. The two teams had out the best nines that they could muster, with the exception of the absence of Glasscock from short for Indianapolis. O'Day, who was in the box for Washington, has been very successful against a majority of the League clubs he has faced this year, and for several innings it looked as if he would prove disastrously effective against Indianapolis, but after the home club had tied the score in the seventh he lost his effectiveness. Boyle had the "statesmen" well in hand from first to last, but he did some careless work in the way of watching bases in the fifth, which gave the visitors their only run. Buckley saved the game in the seventh by his fine catch of a liner from Jimmie Donnelly's bat, and in fact played a good game throughout, both at the bat and in the field. Donnelly and Irwin did some good fielding for the visitors. Esterbrook also played a good game for the home team, while the catching of both Myers and Mack was decidedly brilliant, being the best exhibition of the kind yet this year.

There were no runs before the fifth inning, but in the third the home team was prevented from making runs only by two circus-stops by Irwin and Donnelly. Buckley, after one out, made a two-bagger. Then Boyle and Hines made hard drives, both apparently safe, but the short-stop and third-baseman of the Visitors were in the way, Buckley being left at third.

The record of ciphers was broken by the vieitors in the fifth, when, after one out, Irwin reached first on Bassett's excusable fumble, stole second and third partly by fine running and sliding, but mainly because Boyle allowed him to get such starts that it was impossible for Meyers to head him off. He then scored on Mack's sacrifice toward's first. Esterbrook, in his anxiety to cut off the run, threw home, but the runner was at the plate before the ball left the first baseman's hand.

Buckley led off with a hit in the sixth, but could not get around, and the game began to look quite gloomy, but Denny enlivened things in the seventh, when he hit to deep center field for three bases. As he was the first batter things looked pleasant. Seery raised a fly back of first, which was muffed by O'Brien after he had run around and under it for some time. The error gave Denny a run and tied the score, and then Seery made the first steal accomplished off Mack during the game. Several had tried it, but the bony catcher had been throwing the ball too accurately for the boys. His throw in this instance was also accurate enough, but it was too slow for a runner of Seery's fleetness. The lively left-fielder then added to his laurels by stealing third, and in doing so upset Donnelly, who was standing squarely in the line. Then Charley Bassett lined out a single, and the home team was in the lead. Bassett went to second on Esterbrook's sacrifice and scored on Mc-Geachy's hit, making three runs for Indianapolis. The bright visions of victory which the crowd had begun to entertain faded almost away in the last balf of the inning, for Myers, the first Washington batter, got a base on balls, and Seery made a bad must of Irwin's sly to left, which planted the runners on second and third, with no one out. Mack came to the bat, and George Myers raised the hopes of the crowd by taking a pretty foul tip from his bat. Donnelly, however, smashed the ball hard, and it seemed to be sailing away past Buckley, but that player made a spring for the ball and caught it. The Washington Myers was too far off third to get back, and "Buck" made a double play and ended Washingtons' chances for the game. The play was greeted with great applause by the crowd, and was no less gratifying to the players. Even George Myers threw his mask into the air and gave vent to a small Comanche yell.

The home team clinched the victory in the pext inning. Hines, the first batter, sent the ball ever the high fence at left field for a home run, and Myers got a base on balls. Washington Myers fumbled Denny's grounder, and Seery got in a base bit. These, with a stolen base and two sacrifice flies, yielded three more runs-or four during the inning. Buckley got in a bit in the ninth, the only other hit of the

PITTSBURG, 11; BOSTON, 10.

PITTSBURG, May 10.-The Pittsburgs always could hit Clarkson, and they did not fail to do so to-day, which allowed them to break their long losing streak. In the eighth inning the Bostons made one and tied the score; but the locals touched Clarkson in their half of the tenth and netted two rups, which lead was reduced by one by Kelly's earned run. The features of the game were the hits to the fence by Johnston and Dalrymple, and the double play of Morris, who caught Brown's bunted fly and assisted Kuehne to stop Johnston at third. Kelly was called in to catch in the sixth, and steadied Clarkson wonderfully. Attendance, 1,200. Score:

The New Yorks' other two runs were made on errors of Pfeffer and Burns. Racing at Lexington. LEXINGTON, Ky., May 10 .- The attendance at the fourth day's races of the Kentucky Association was not so large as on preceding days. The falling off was due to the fact that the Melbourne stable had practically a walk-over for the blue-ribbon stake, Derby distance. This event has been for years the most popular race of the spring meeting, and the winner of this stake has always been regarded as the probable winner of the Kentucky Derby. Gallifel, of the

As they passed the one-half, Covington sent Princess Blandina to the front, with Don Regent second, the rest bunched close up. As they raced to the three-quarters, Barnes had sent Wary up to second place. Up the hill they went, and as they turned into the stretch Princess was leading by half a length. In a few strides Barnes had sent Wary to the front, and strides Barnes had sent Wary to the front, and after a driving finish Wary won by a scant length; Don Regent two lengths in front of Blandina, third. The Melbourne stables had two entries posted—The Lion and Montpelier. They concluded Montpelier was good enough to beat Cast Steel, the other entry, so The Lion was scratched. Cast Steel sprang to the front, and at an easy pace they passed the stand, Cast Steel leading by four lengths. Around the first turn McCarty was the same distance from the Outcast colt of Mr. R. L. Liste. As they raced to the balf, McCarty moved up, and as the half mile was passed, was within one length of the leader. McCarty commenced to ride, and when the stretch was entered he was seen to raise his arm, the whip descended, and he kept it going until the distance stand was reached, when, as Cast Steel was running easy, he gave it up, and Cast Steel went under the wire winner by two lengths. Time, 2:461. Post odds—Montpelier, $2 to $7; Cast Steel, $2 to $1.

New York, May 10.—The convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians adjourned to-day, after electing the following national officers: Wm. The Senate Reconsiders the Railroad Land-Forfeiture Bill and Again Passes It. WASHINGTON, May 10 .- The House bill to promote agriculture was reported and placed on the calendar. It requires United States consular officers to make monthly reports upon the character, condition and prospective yields of agricultural and horticultural industries in the countries in which they are stationed. The railroad fand-grant forfeiture bill was then taken up, the question being on Mr. Call's motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed.

Mr. Plumb moved to lay the motion to reconsider on the table, which was disagreed to-yeas 23, nays 34.

Thebill was then reconsidered and again brought before the Senate. An amendment to protect pre-emption and homestead claimants was then offered by Mr. Spooner and agreed to. Mr. Call offered an amendment confirming the titles of purchasers of certain railroad lands in Florida, lying adjacent to the parts of rail-road lines constructed within the time limited in the granting act.

Mr. Plumb moved to amend the amendment by adding a provise that a mortgage or pledge of land by any of the railroad companies should be considered as a sale.

Mr. Call accepted the proviso.

After discussion. Mr. Cail's amendment was agreed to and the bill passed. Mr. Allison, from the committee on appropriations, reported back the pension-appropriation bill and the bill making appropriations to enable the executive departments to participate in the centennial exposition of the Ohio Valley and Central States, in Cincinnati, from July to October 1888 and gave notice that he would select tober, 1888, and gave notice that he would ask the Senate to consider those bills next Monday. Mr. Stewart gave notice that after the animalindustry bill was disposed of he would ask the Senate to consider the bill for the admission of Washington Territory as a State.

Mr. Blair, from the committee on education and labor, reported back the House bill to prevent the employment of alien labor on public works. Placed on the calendar. The Senate bill for the presentation of a gold medal to Joseph Francis, of New York, in recog-nition of his services to humanity in the construction and perfection of life-saving appliances,

Mr. Sherman moved that the Senate proceed to consideration of the resolution offered by from the committee on foreign relations, providing that when the fisheries treaty shall be under consideration a stenographic reporter shall be admitted to report the debates and pro-ceedings, such seport to be subject to the order of the Senate as to its publication.

Mr. Hoar suggested that Mr. Riddleberger's resolution in favor of considering the treaty in open session should be first taken up and disposed of, and was informed by Mr. Sherman that both questions would be disposed of together. The motion was agreed to.

"In the consideration of this resolution," said Mr. Edmunds, "I move that the doors be closed." The motion was seconded by Mr. Harris, whereupon the presiding officer directed the Sergeant-at-arms to clear the galleries and to close the doors of the Senate.

When the doors were re-opened the following bills were taken from the calendar and passed: The Senate bill to grant to the Fort Smith & El Paso Railroad Company right of way 100 feet in width on each side of the line through the Indiana Territory; Senate bill to authorize construction of a bridge over the Mississippi river at Clarksville, Mo.; the Senate bill appropriating $40,000 for a public building in Beatrice, Neb.; the Senate bill to reimburse certain persons (153) for moneys, services and supplies in suppressing Indian hostilities in Nevada in 1860, aggregating about $29,000; the Senate bill granting to the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Com-pany right of way 75 feet wide on each side of the track through the Nez Perces Indian reservation; the Senate bill for a public building at Hastings, Neb. Debating the Mills Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 10.-The conference report was agreed to on the joint resolution authorizing the President to arrange a conference between the United States and the republics of Mexico and Central and South America and Brazil. Mr. Sayres, of Texas, called up a bill making an appropriation of $450,000 to supply a deficiency in the appropriation for the expenses of collecting the revenue from the customs for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1888. There is a clause in the bill repealing the permanent appropriations for the collection of customs. An ammendment was adopted appropriating $3,500, 000 to supply a deficiency in the appropriation for the payment of army and navy pensions to invalid widows, minor children and dependent relatives and survivors of the war of 1812. An amendment was adopted providing that the appropriation of $190,000 made by the act of March 3, 1887, for heating apparatus to be furnished before June 30, 1888, to certain public buildings, shall continue available to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to fulfill contracts entered into prior to June 30, 1888. The bill was then passed as amended. The House then went into committee of the whole-Mr. Springer, of Illinois, in the chair-

Mr. Turner, of Georgia, spoke in favor of the Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, said that it was ad mitted that the revenue should be reduced Much well-founded complaint had been made that the President, by his veto of the dependent pension bill, had prevented the distribution of a part of that revenue amongst the defenders of the Union. This President had, however, signed the Mexican war pension bill, and each of those soldiers—rich or poor—had his name in-scribed on the pension roll when he reached the age of sixty-two years. The widow of a Mexican war soldier, whose husband fought to destroy the Union, got a pension, while the widow of the Union soldier could only receive it by producing the strictest technical proof, after the lapse of a quarter of a century, of the death of her husband. The President piled up the surplus in three hundred national banks to the amount of $60,000,000, without interest. It was only by the efforts of Messrs. Randall and Morrison that he had been forced to apply a part of that surplus to the redemption of bonds already due. Taking up the tariff bill, Mr. Cannon denied that its tariff features would reduce the revenues one cent. History showed that as the duties were lowered the revenues increased. The bill was subject to criticism for many sins of omission and commission. The free-wool clause was one of the sins of commission. The wool product in the United States was three-fourths of the amount consumed. We would destroy the great wool interests if we placed them in competition with the free wools of Australia and South America. The prices would go up, and we would be at the mercy of the foreign wool-grower. If, as he believed, a provision placing sugar on the free list would reduce the revenues as far as was prudent, he would enact such a provision, with the addition of the administrative laws and stop there. It amused him to hear the solicitude expressed by gentlemen on the other side for the oppressed farmer, to see them shedding crocodile tears over the poor farmer, when they would not know a deer from a cow if they saw it. The gentlemen on the other side all seemed to think that labor was oppressed in the United States. Let them look at the statistics. One million paupers in England and only 80,000 in the United States, with twice the population. He never could be accused of aspiring to be a leader, but he was willing to hang on the walls a banner bearing the inscription: "$24,000,000 off internal revenue, $17,000,000 off tobacco and $7,000,000 off special licenses," and under that write: "Free sugar and a bounty of two cents a pound." That was all that was needed to reduce the revenues $86,000,000. He called for volunteers from the Democratic side, but there

Mr. Wilkinson, of Louisiana, said, while the bill had not been framed to suit his views, or those of his constituents, he would say to the friends of honest reduction in taxation that his people would not shrink from bearing their share in the reduction of the taxes now imposed on

Mr. Johnston, of Indians, asked if the gentle man was willing to put sugar on the free list. Mr. Wilkinson responded in the negative.

Mr. Wilkinson responded in the negative.

Mr. Johnston asked if it would not be as just as the proposition to place wool on the free list.

Mr. Wilkinson replied that he had not been heard to advocate free wool. Impartial judges had pronounced in favor of the sugar taxes and against the wool taxes, and these matters he had been willing to leave, in great part, to judges not interested. Continuing, he argued in favor of the sugar tax, which he said was a source of revenue in time of peace and war, and gave em-ployment to many persons. California was al-ready producing enough beet sugar to justify the

The debate was continued by Messrs. Brumm and Clements, at the conclusion of whose remarks the committee rose and the House took a recess till 8 P. M., the evening session to be for debate on the tariff bill. At the evening session Mr. Belden, of New York, addressed the House in opposition to the tariff bill. Mr. Atkinson, of Pennsylvania, declared himself as wholly in favor of a protective policy, and other members spoke for and against the bill. At 11 o'clock the House adjourned.

A Double Tragedy Caused by Jealousy. PITTSBURG, May 10. - Shortly before 11 o'clock this morning Charles Turner, a German grocery man living at 653 East Ohio street, Allegheny City, shot his wife in the back and then shot himself. Death was instantaneous in both cases. The cause of the tragedy was jealousy, which, from all that can be learned, was unfounded. Turner had a violent temper and frequently quarreled with his wife, who, the neighbors say, was of a gentle disposition. No one was present when the shooting took place. A daughter of the couple was in an adjoining room and heard her father upbraiding her mother. A few moments later she was startled by the report of a pistol. She ran out just in time to see her mother fall and her father place the revolver to his own head and fire. He fell to the ground, and before she reached their side both were dead.

Shot by a Crazy Italian. BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 10 .- As Erie train No. 12 was pulling into the depot here at 1 o'clock this morning. John Pareno, an Italian, a passenger in the day coach, suddenly sprang to his feet, drew a revolver, and fired three shots at Owen Howe, another passenger, from Harts-ville, Allegheny county. One of the bullets struck Howe in the breast, inflicting a dangerous wound, and another detached the pendant from a lady's ear-ring. Pareno then sprang from the train and fied up the street, but was overhauled by the depot police. The Italian claims that Howe and several other passengers had robbed and threatened to kill him. Howe says the Italian is crazy, and has not been robbed at all. Pareno is from Braidwood, Ill., and was on his way to Italy. Both men are held at police

A Receiver for G. F. Montgomery's Property. CHICAGO, May 10.—Edward H. Turner was to-day appointed receiver of 509 car-loads of lumber which Howison & Carter, of Dixie, Ala., and several other Alabama and Mississipp dealers, claim were procured from them by George F. Montgomery through fraud. Montgomery is alleged to have gone South with letters of introduction from Hayden Broa., of Chicago, the First National Bank, of Olney, Ill., and other Chicago and Northern business firms, He then fied back North and left the Southern men to whistle for their money. Lumbermen say that Hayden Bros. and the Olney bank were cognizant of Montgomery's character, and William Hayden bought some of the lumber in Montgomery's name. It was shipped North in cars and was found at a half a dozen points in Chicago, in Michigan, and elsewhere.
